Spectacular Fire Leaves Ships Badly Damaged

MONTREAL (CP) — A spectacular fire broke out aboard a tugboat early today, leaving the ship and both ships badly damaged. The fire, which started in the engine room, spread rapidly, engulfing the ship in flames. The tugboat, the St. Lawrence, was carrying a cargo of lumber. The fire was extinguished after about an hour, but the damage was extensive. The ship was towed to a nearby wharf and is being repaired. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Cape Breton Water Plant Costly to B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — The federal government's decision to build a heavy water plant in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, has been criticized by British Columbia politicians. They argue that the plant is too costly and that the water it produces is not needed in the province. The plant is expected to cost $100 million and will produce heavy water for the nuclear power industry. The federal government has defended the decision, stating that the plant is a necessary part of the country's energy program.

Liberal Leader Blames Bennett For Loss Of Plant To East Coast

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett told a press conference today that the federal government's decision to build a heavy water plant in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, was a mistake. He blamed the loss of the plant to the east coast on the Liberal government's policies. He said that the plant was a necessary part of the country's energy program and that it should have been built in British Columbia. He also criticized the federal government's handling of the situation.

Quebec Labor Leader Wary Of Unrealistic Separatism

QUEBEC (CP) — Labor leader Jean Marchand said today that he is wary of unrealistic separatist demands. He said that the province of Quebec should focus on economic development and social progress rather than on the issue of independence. He also criticized the federal government's policies and called for a more balanced approach to the relationship between the province and the federal government.

Ontario Accountants' Group Urges Legalized Gambling

TORONTO (CP) — An organization of the law have failed to charter accountants in Ontario. The group has urged the provincial government to legalize gambling and to allow accountants to provide services in the field. They argue that this would help to reduce the black market and to provide a more regulated environment for the industry.

The controversy has led to a series of public hearings and has caused a great deal of discussion in the community.

Optimism Said Mounting On Victims' Identification

STE. THERESE, Que. (CP) — Investigators expressed mounting optimism Monday night that a majority of the 118 persons who died in the crash of a TCA DC-8F jet airliner last Friday night may be identified. Chief Inspector Gerald Houle of the provincial police announced that 11 victims already had been identified through personal effects, such as wallets, and there was "an excellent chance" 29 more would be identified shortly. Both he and Dr. Jean-Louis Taillon, Terrebonne County coroner, said no plans were being made immediately for a mass burial. "We might be mistaken," Insp. Houle said, "but we believe we'll ultimately identify a majority of the victims." "Only as a last resort, and under orders of the (Quebec) attorney-general, will there be a mass or common burial for those not identified."

CAPT. JACK SNIDER ... the pilot

Meanwhile, a five-man coroner's jury was installed by Dr. Taillon and viewed some remains of some of the victims. The inquest was adjourned for an indefinite period while the work of reclamation and investigation continued in below-freezing temperatures.

EXPERTS INVESTIGATE
On the scene were hundreds of investigators — Canadian Army explosives experts, provincial police, relays of TCA employees and experts from the department of transport and provincial medical-legal and biochemical laboratories. In Ottawa, Transport Minister McInnis announced that experts had been called in from many sources, including the National Research Council, National Aeronautics Establishment, RCA, RCMP and Canadian Air Line Pilots' Association. Three United States investigators also had been lending assistance and studying details. One was from the Civil Aeronautics Board, one from the Federal Aviation Authority and one from Douglas Aircraft Company. Insp. Houle said more than 1,000 persons have been questioned about the crash but nothing has been discovered so far to indicate criminal negligence. Dr. Taillon said the attorney-general's department has given TCA the status of an executor or agent in dealing with next-of-kin. The airline would notify families of the victims and ask relatives to confirm identifications made tentatively by investigators. The remains would then be released for burial, or relatives could authorize TCA to make funeral arrangements. Insp. Houle also issued an appeal for the return of articles and bits of wreckage taken from the site by scavengers and souvenir hunters. "I have the authority of the attorney-general to promise that we will return everything to the families of the victims," he said. "All we want is to know where and when the articles were found."

Heavy construction equipment Monday joined workers with shovels in tearing up the frozen mud for remains of victims and more wreckage. A TCA spokesman said heavy pieces of wreckage might have plunged into the marshy ground to a depth of 30 feet. In Toronto, home of 76 of the 118 victims, Mayor Philip Givens announced he will drop a wreath from a helicopter Friday near the crash site 20 miles north of Montreal. Mr. Givens said he will be accompanied in the helicopter by Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau. If the crash site is dedicated as a cemetery, he said, a memorial may be built there. TCA President G. R. McGregg issued a statement in Montreal Monday saying there is no reason for the airline to consider removing its two remaining DC-8F aircraft from service.

Both he and Dr. Jean-Louis Taillon, Terrebonne County coroner, said no plans were being made immediately for a mass burial. "We might be mistaken," Insp. Houle said, "but we believe we'll ultimately identify a majority of the victims." "Only as a last resort, and under orders of the (Quebec) attorney-general, will there be a mass or common burial for those not identified."

Icebreaker Loses Propeller And Shaft
CHURCHVILLE, N.Z. (AP) — The U.S. Navy icebreaker Atika lost a propeller and shaft while cutting a channel through the ice of Antarctica's McMurdo Sound, the U.S. Navy said Monday. The ship will leave Tuesday for New Zealand under its own power. The ship was on a mission to deliver supplies to the McMurdo station. The loss of the propeller and shaft was a significant setback for the mission. The ship's crew is working to repair the damage and return to the station as soon as possible.

WIVES NECESSARY SAYS MARCUS LONG

TORONTO (CP) — Every man needs at least four wives, says University of Toronto philosopher Marcus Long. A man needs a housekeeper, a woman to raise his children, a hostess and a woman to earn money, he said Monday night at a Toronto Board of Trade luncheon.

King Solomon was the wisest man of all times and he had 700 wives and 300 concubines, he said. His topic: "Are women really necessary?" His answer: "They are more than necessary." Dr. Long said man needs women for her courage. "When a woman wears a low-cut gown she has to have courage because her heart isn't in it."

A TCA spokesman said similar services have been arranged for Toronto.

MUTUAL RESPECT SEEN BETWEEN JOHNSON AND PRESIDENT'S BROTHER

Bright Future for Bob Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — What does the future hold for Robert Kennedy, 38, brother and No. 1 advisor to a president now dead at an assassin's hand? The word is that the attorney-general will be back soon from a brief rest in Florida, and that he is ready to support the new president, Lyndon B. Johnson, as fully as Johnson supported John F. Kennedy. Johnson has asked all cabinet members to stay in their posts. Anyway, those knowledgeable of the national scene would consider it unthinkable for Johnson to let Kennedy go. For one thing, a mutual esteem has developed between the two men — an admiration scarcely apparent in the rough, pre-convention battling of 1960, when Robert was his brother's campaign manager. For another, much of the Kennedy mantle now has fallen on the oldest surviving brother, Robert Kennedy, for example, who is a knightly crusader for their civil rights, though by the same token some Negro leaders have felt he did not push hard enough. There has been talk — it is too early to tell whether it has substance — that Johnson might ask him to join the ticket next year as vice-presidential nominee. Or that he might run for governor of Massachusetts. But this position now held by Democratic Endicott Peabody, former football guard from Harvard, the Kennedy alma mater. And unless Peabody really wanted to step aside next year, it is considered unlikely that Kennedy would judge him. As for the long-term future, his friends and who Elmer are convinced that at some time he will run for public office. For the Kennedys have been and are competitive men, public men intent on affairs of state. Brother John F. won the presidency, brother Edward M. a Senate seat. Only Robert has won no elective office. His wife remarked last spring: "Of course, he will run for office. He'll have to, to prove he can win."

New Heavy Water Plant Helps East Coal Problem

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP) — The building is operation, the Nova Scotia advanced into the nuclear age Monday with an announcement in the Commons that a $150,000,000 heavy water plant would be built here.

The federal government's decision to build the plant at Glace Bay, a town of 24,000 on the east coast of Cape Breton Island, means an economic boost to a coal mining area chronically plagued by unemployment.

The plant, to be built and operated by Deuterium of Canada Limited, is expected to be completed in 1972.

Deuterium will produce a minimum of 24,000 tons of heavy water annually for the first five years of production.

The company and Industrial Estates Limited, a Nova Scotia Crown corporation set up to promote industry in the province, said construction would start "as soon as possible" with about 2,000 funding jobs during the first year.

The power station will more than double its present consumption of Nova Scotia coal when the plant goes into operation. About 350,000 tons are expected to be used each year.

Anti Apartheid Chief Winning

UNITATA, South Africa (Reuter) — Parametrix Chief Victor P. 62 who opposes the South African government's apartheid policy, is expected to win the election for the post of chief minister when the 100-seat assembly meets Friday behind closed doors.

The final eight results of the Nov. 20 balloting were announced Monday, and seven of the eight men elected are supporters of the grey-haired chief.

Chief Minister Matanzima, backed by the South African government and a strong supporter of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's apartheid policy, is considered to have the support of only 15 elected members.

Inquiry Called Into Election

EDMONTON (CP) — Lawyers for the Civic Government Association said Monday they will seek a delay in the Dec. 11 court hearing into the validity of October's civic election because they are not ready to proceed. The association contends that the number of improperly filed affidavits was greater than the 20-vote difference between Alderman Ed Leger and defeated CGA candidate Murray Hamilton.

Income Tax Cut Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — The top rates of personal and corporate income taxes should be reduced to "reasonable levels," the Board of Trade of Metropolitan Toronto said today.

The 10,000-member board told the royal commission on taxation that it doubted if the revenue department would suffer any great losses with such a reduction, and if it did, the revenue could be recovered through the increased use of sales taxes.

The present peak rate of 80 per cent on personal income serves no useful purposes, said the board's brief. If the rate were reduced to 60 per cent, the lost revenue would amount to only one-fifth of one per cent of personal income tax revenue.

Sask. Bishop Monument Set

REGINA (CP) — A monument is to be erected near this city's Holy Rosary Cathedral to Olivier Eliezer Mathieu, the first Roman Catholic archbishop of Saskatchewan and a man who might be called a historic "biculturalist."

The man behind the monument, to be unveiled next spring, is Rev. Athol Murray, a former associate of Archbishop Mathieu and now head of Notre Dame College at Wilcox, Sask.

Father Murray said in an interview the idea for the memorial was spawned by current national concern for the unity of Canada's French- and English-speaking components.

He said Archbishop Mathieu — born in 1853 in Quebec City, educated in Quebec and made rector of Laval University before moving to Regina, where he died in 1929 — "gave his entire life to bringing the people of Canada together."

Father Murray said the archbishop made his most significant contribution to Canadian unity in 1914, when Quebec's contribution to the country's effort in the First World War became a national issue.

GOES TO OTTAWA

"There was danger of civil war that year," Father Murray said. Mathieu was called, above politics, to go to Ottawa. In Ottawa, he met Prime Minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Robert L. Borden, the Duke of Devonshire and various other leaders.

"He was made a commission of one to appeal to Quebec and try to bring Quebec to support the war effort," Quebec responded.

Quebec formed her own regiment and surprised Ontario in contributing to the victory loan drive.

Father Murray wants to "highlight and emphasize" the contribution of Archbishop Mathieu, his work in easing conflict over the issue of separate schools in Saskatchewan after the First World War, and his day-to-day efforts to bring about close understanding between French and English.

Federal Provincial Confab Comes Back To House

OTTAWA (CP) — Issues from the federal-provincial fiscal conference of last week flowed into the House of Commons Monday.

There was no capitation, there was no unanimity, Prime Minister Pearson said in a capsule denial of allegations that Quebec allied the time at the four-day meeting.

"From fire and brimstone in April to honeyed words in November," said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in his appraisal of Quebec Premier Lesage then and now.

"Honey may be sweet at this time but the bee will sting," he added.

NDP Leader Douglas said there might not have been any capitation to Quebec for a larger slice of tax revenue but some people might well think there had been a "behind-the-scenes" deal in which Quebec got nearly $43,000,000 of the extra $87,400,000 being paid to the provinces in the next fiscal year.

Gilles Gregoire (Credit-Lapointe) said the federal government should cease holding round-table talks with the provinces and begin separate negotiations with each province.

Mr. Gregoire said the federal government brings the 10 provinces together, provides disagreement and then imposes its own solution on them all.

His solution was to have 10 separate conferences with the federal government dealing individually with the different provinces and priorities of the provinces.

Robert Thompson, leader of the Social Credit group, was to speak today as the debate resumed.

Mr. Pearson in a lengthy review of the meeting last week said he thinks the proposed Canadian contributory pension plan can proceed now without another provincial conference although further written consultation will be needed.

ANSWERS DIED

But he said, in answer to a critical suggestion last week by M. Diefenbaker that the government was going to capitulate to a Quebec ultimatum for more money.

"There was consultation. There were concessions and there was agreement."

He admitted again that the government had changed its pledge to revise tax — sharing equalization — payments to the less-wealthy provinces.

This, in part, instead of basing these payments on the tax income of the wealthiest province — Ontario — the base would be the average of Ontario and British Columbia.

That was more stable and represented a compromise taken from conference views, he said. But the change meant a reduction of only some $12,000,000 to the provinces.

EFFORTS CONTINUE

He had every hope that the federal and Ontario governments could come to terms on the pension plan — an essential event since Quebec has chosen to stay out of it. Meanwhile, efforts would continue to find a better fiscal arrangement in general.

Mr. Diefenbaker said ballyhoo and propaganda preceded the conference, indicating to Canadians that Confederation was on its last legs.

But all the conference had done was indicate that the Liberal government had learned the hard way that the provinces must be consulted before joint action is taken.

What price was involved in Quebec's change of tone? He asked.

The Liberals had broken a promise displayed in three federal election campaigns by failing to adopt equalization payments pinned to Ontario's income.

Finally, the $87,000,000 income for the provinces next year was a far cry from the increase of more than $600,000,000 given under the Conservative government.

Badly Burned Man Dies After Apartment Block Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — An inquest will be held into the death of Robert Jordan, 41, who was found lying outside a 12-suite apartment house with burns to 90 per cent of his body. Jordan, who died Saturday, was one of several tenants who leaped from a burning building Nov. 27.

Mr. Blacklock, a well-known auctioneer, succeeds N. W. Symonds of North Battleford, who held the post for seven years.

Mining Group Asks Ottawa To Call Off Sales Tax Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Metal Mining Association asked today that the government call off its scheduled increases in sales tax on production machinery and building materials.

The tax, now four per cent, is due to rise to eight per cent next April 1 and to 11 per cent at the start of 1969. The previous sales tax exemption for production machinery and building materials was lifted in the June federal budget.

An association brief to the royal commission on taxation said that if the government decides the tax is the best method of increasing revenues, it should be extended to segments of the economy now exempt "and not to productive industries which must remain competitive in world markets."

In any case, said the association, the Excise Tax Act should try to clarify the definitions of "production machinery" and "processing materials" so firms can continue to take advantage of the exemption applying to materials used directly in the production process. Certain production supplies now were being subject to tax simply because they were attached to a taxable production machine.

ENCOURAGE CANADIANS

The association also said that if the government wants more Canadian participation in investment, it should encourage Canadians rather than discourage them.

Many Canadian mining developments involving foreign capital were being carried out under long-term contracts, and foreign participation would be necessary for some time to come.

Federal Pensions Backed by Labor

Representatives of organized labor in the Okanagan Valley have declared themselves in support of the federal government's pension plan.

A resolution endorsing such support was adopted by the Kelowna, Penticton, Vernon and District Labor Council at its regular meeting held in Kelowna on Sunday.

The resolution was by Jim Currie of Penticton, who said that the pension plan proposed by Health and Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh was one of the most courageous pieces of legislation presented to the Canadian people for a good many years.

"Unfortunately, however," he said, "Miss LaMarsh's program has been sabotaged from various quarters from the beginning."

But it is not a dead issue, he said, and he thought we could do something about it.

Vegetable Workers, Harold Buchanan of Vernon Typographical Union and Tom Rose of the Bakers, the council voted unanimously in the Kamloops resolution.

It was pointed out that, while internal autonomy was a desirable objective, the approach of the Kamloops resolution was impractical from a financial point of view. Also, both Mr. Rose and Mr. Buchanan said their unions already had a wide measure of autonomy and could not be dictated to in matters of internal policy.

Mr. Buchanan said it would be financially impossible for his union to set up a Canadian administration office.

Besides, he said, this would be an unnecessary duplication, since all money collected from the Canadian membership is held in Canada, except for that portion allocated for the upkeep of the international administration.

Referring to strike action, Mr. Buchanan said that "nobody" wanted to strike. The decision belongs to the people directly concerned and the international is provided to support their decision. It is a legal action and has been decided by a proper vote by secret ballot.

Mr. Currie said a great many people were worried by the implications of the Great Lakes dispute but that "nobody" should ignore the benefits of honest international unionism.

He said that in those unions where autonomy in internal affairs might not be available to Canadian members, the best way of attaining such autonomy "was by a grass roots movement within the unions themselves."

Mr. Currie felt that the B.C. Federation resolution would encourage such a grass roots movement and, at the same time, "serve as an indication to everyone of the spirit that is sweeping across Canada today."

WIRE SUPPORT

A telegram will be sent to Miss LaMarsh indicating support for the pension program and urging continuing efforts to ward off any implementation of the plan.

Letters on the same subject will be sent to Premier W. A. C. Bennett, urging provincial support, and to Okanagan M.P.s, Dave Pugh and Stuart Fleming.

The council also voted to endorse a B.C. Federation of Labor resolution favoring autonomy in Canadian affairs for Canadian members of international unions.

A resolution forwarded from the Kamloops Labor Council dealing with the same subject, was also considered. Under the terms of this resolution, all international unions would be required to set up completely autonomous Canadian administrations.

Official Raps City For Proposed Hike In Library Rental

W. B. Hughes-Games, library treasurer and City of Kelowna representative on board of management, Okanagan Regional Library, wrote City Council protesting the proposed increase in ground rent of the Regional Library.

"By taking this action, at one blow," said Mr. Hughes-Games, "you may have destroyed 12 years of missionary work that has already achieved several successes, and is on the verge of complete success."

At their October meeting the board, by resolution, went on record that they would recommend to their respective units that all municipalities and school boards from 1963 bear all local expenses, including premises, heat, light, janitor, furnishings and repairs.

Smaller Branches Operate At No Cost To Regional Library

There are 33 small branches of the Okanagan Regional Library system operating in the Okanagan Valley. A full and complete list of these branches can be found in a Community Hall, or even used by all city organizations, a room of a home, all of which is given free with no cost whatever to the regional library, though the library does make a charge of $50 a year to each community, who otherwise receives facilities for meetings.

"All these communities pay the same per capita as Kelowna. All they get is a collection of books, or perhaps 500 or less, which are added to or withdrawn every six weeks."

"Kelowna gets for their $1 to Mr. Hughes-Games."

"I would, therefore, ask you to reconsider your intentions as regards ground rent," he said. "We have worked so hard to have all municipalities, school boards, and be proud of their own libraries. We are at the point of complete success. In the past the City of Kelowna has been an enlightened city, people supplied free and very special showing the way to others."

MANY FACILITIES

"There is a reading room with many periodicals and newspapers supplied free and very special showing the way to others."

Experts Address Beekeepers On Growing And Marketing

The Canadian Association of Apiculturists in a joint symposium today, were addressed by R. P. Walrod, general manager B.C. Tree Fruits, Kelowna, F. E. Atkinson, head of fruit and vegetable processing, research station at Summerland, and Miss Lorna R. Michael, extension home economist, B.C. Provincial Dept. of Agriculture, Kamloops, at Capri Motor Inn.

"Soils in the Okanagan vary somewhat but most of the fruit lands are deposits scoured off the great tertiary lava flows which covered most of the plateau by moving ice, at one time, 7,000 feet thick at this point," said Mr. Walrod. "As the ice ceased moving and then receded, a great plug was left to fill the Okanagan."

"These bench lands are abundantly productive and yield many kinds of fruit of superlative quality."

"The so-called economic unit of production is of critical importance to the prosperity of a fruit grower. As few as 10 acres may provide a modest living for a man and his wife."

CITRUS STUDY

"Some time ago a study of citrus growers was done for the Sunbelt organization, which is also a co-op, by the Giannini Foundation, Univ. of California. It was found that their growers fell into three groups: those making money, those losing money and those breaking even, and each group accounted for roughly a third of the total production."

"I feel quite certain that a similar study conducted in the deciduous fruit industry or the honey business would find a similar array of economic checks and balances."

"I suspect there is an important difference between honey and fruit business in this adjustment process in the fact that you can buy your producing elements in packages on a year to year basis, while it takes from five to 10 years to bring a fruit tree into bearing," said Mr. Walrod.

HONEY USED IN WINE MAKING Traced Back To Earliest Origins

"The kinds of wine in which honey has been used are limitless," said Mr. Atkinson.

"One is made with which, historic reference go back to the earliest times in the period of the Persians and Greeks."

"Another is cyser, this is an older ancient product which was made by the addition of bitter-sweet apple juice to honey."

Alberta Artists Work Display Hung In City Regional Library

The work of 16 Alberta artists will be displayed at the Okanagan Regional Library from December 1 to 26.

"Kelowna Art Exhibit Society has just completed a wonderful showing of Christmas fantasy," said Mrs. Muriel Foulkes, director of library services.

The showing raised approximately $800. These funds will be used to bring other shows for exhibit to Kelowna. These shows will come from the Western Canada Art Circuit and will be the continuation of a series of exhibits that have hung in the library board room each month.

Parents Best Instructors If They Do It Early

This is Safe Driving Week across Canada, that annual observance designed to bring safety on highways and streets into the spotlight.

In conjunction with the observance, John Atkinson, Toronto, general chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Council, the organization that annually sponsors the week, makes the point that much of the onus rests on parents, who have to teach children safety.

"Too often parents shun this responsibility," he said, "with the result children grow up thinking of 'safety' as only a word. It should be a way of life by the time they reach adulthood."

Mr. Atkinson issued an urgent plea that parents begin training their children in safe habits as soon as they can walk.

"It is then," he said, "their minds are receptive."

True words, words the parents of Kelowna could well take to heart.

Parents, in most everything they do, must be guided by the fact children will emulate the things they do, be they good or bad.

If father or mother pays little attention to traffic signs, coasts through stop signs, fails to make signals when they turn, switches lanes in the city without watching or warning other drivers, the child too will do those things when they get behind the wheel.

It takes a long time to make a good, conscientious driver. When the child becomes of age and takes the family car out on the road by himself, who is to correct him? How do you know how your child drives? You never have an opportunity to correct him, until the police have to step in following an accident. Then it may be too late.

The best way to train drivers is by example. The best time to do it is always. Don't you drive the way you don't want your child to drive.

"WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE? EITHER WAY YOU CAN'T DUCK THEM"

Highway Record Bad

(Charlottesville Post)

People who are concerned with highway traffic safety are making strenuous efforts to curb the slaughter on the roads, and there is evidence that the efforts are needed.

Five separate news stories yesterday told of highway fatalities in the Maritime Provinces, and this province's record of highway traffic deaths is well ahead of 1959 when 30 people died violently on our roads, a record considered to be the worst in recent years. In that year 23 people had fallen victim to traffic accidents by November 19. The toll to date this year is 29, so the record of slaughter is well ahead of 1959, though the impact of that year was so great that Lieutenant-Governor F. Walter Hyndman made special reference to it in his New Year's message to the people, and called it "a blot on the history of our fair province."

Everybody regrets the situation but nobody thus far has been able to do much about it. It was thought for a time that the introduction of the "point system" was having the necessary effect on driving habits, and it did appear to be effective in the first years of operation. But this year's results dim the hopes all of us entertained at that time.

Although our record is bad it is not unique, as other provinces have similar problems. Quebec, for example, is planning now for much stricter driving tests next year, as one approach to the highway safety problem.

All candidates there will have to learn a new system of highway signs which are being introduced; practical driving tests will be longer and more exacting, new standards for physical fitness are being introduced and greater knowledge of traffic laws will be required. Examiners will have to upgrade their own training standards at courses to be held in Montreal and Quebec.

This planning may have a beneficial result, but only time will tell if it will cut down appreciably the percentage of highway accidents which is the real test of any safety planning.

Haitians Live Nervously But They Manage A Laugh

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (CP)—There is a story in Port au Prince—probably true—about two Haitians walking past the white-domed palace of dictator Francois Duvalier.

The first man looks towards the palace. A guard stops him and demands: "Why are you looking at the palace?"

The second man looks the other way as he goes past. The guard stops him also and asks:

"Why do you refuse to look at the palace?"

Haitians today live nervously, not knowing which way to look but they are still able to see the humor in the tragedy of their impoverished little Caribbean country.

On the surface, this bedraggled capital goes on living at its normal pace of calm confusion.

To an outsider, the only visible signs of unrest are the frequent police checkpoints, occasional searches of his baggage and person for arms, the poorly disguised anti-aircraft guns set up behind the shrubbery at the palace grounds.

TENSE AIR

But at night the capital takes on a subtle air of tension. Larger groups of police roam the streets or stand guard at the homes of government officials. Occasionally there is a burst of unexplained gunfire.

Responsible Haitians and foreign observers say President Duvalier, in six years of power, has built up a regime where corruption and stagnation almost defy exaggeration.

They also say that the government's terror tactics are continuing, although with less severity than earlier this year when the regime was under attack. They claim that arbitrary imprisonment, torture and sudden death are frequent occurrences.

Cases are given, in detail, with the plea that they not be published in case the informant might be identified.

These stories are impossible to prove. But diplomats and other foreigners believe there are authentic cases among the large body of rumor and exaggeration.

With no independent press—without even an adequate telephone system—rumors fly through this city with incredible speed.

Often they collapse as quickly. A high government official, supposed to have been imprisoned, is seen riding in his limousine through the streets; a businessman said to have been jailed one day and sent back to their offices the next.

ISLAND OF TENSION

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Oust Those Bunions At Soonest Date

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have just arrived home from the hospital after a bunionectomy on both feet. After your encouraging letter some time back, I finally decided to have the surgery.

With arthritis, my deformed toes and bunions were extra painful. This note is to thank you for the relief I found.—J.R.

And I hope your letter will lead to the relief of a great many people with bunions.

I don't, of course, say that all bunions require surgery, for there are a lot of bunions in this world.

Whether or not to operate requires good judgment. If it is a minor bunion, careful shoe-fitting and perhaps some other measures will alleviate discomfort and prevent the condition from worsening.

There are other cases in which the postponement of surgery or refusing to have it done is nothing but voluntarily accepting endless torture.

That "lump" at the joint of the toe won't go away. There may be (and probably is) some callus which can be removed, or it will subside naturally, when pressure is relieved. But most of the "lump" is the joint of the toe, forced out of position and often made extremely tender because of bursitis that has developed.

In such a case surgery is the only sound answer, and the sooner it is performed, the sooner the misery ends.

One way to know when surgery is advisable is to muddle along with makeshift "remedies" pads and the like, until you finally decide that you can't put up with them any longer.

Another way is to let an expert examine the painful foot or feet, and have him tell whether your case warrants an operation. Either podiatrists or orthopedic surgeons are experts on bunions.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 52 and have not menstruated for two years. I suppose you have answered this question many times, but can I become pregnant now?—MRS. M.S.

Yes, I HAVE answered it many times, and my only conclusions are these two: 1—Most women are interested in pregnancy, either for or against it, but rarely neutral; 2—Most women have an intuitive ability to avoid reading my column on the day I answer this question.

There is no absolute rule, but for all practical purposes, pregnancy will not occur when a woman has gone without a menstrual period for 12 months. A shorter time is usually sufficient, but the 12 months gives a good margin of safety. Pregnancy past 51 is very unlikely.

OTTAWA REPORT

Wit Of Politicians Livens Commons

By PATRICK NICHOLSON
Daily Courier Ottawa Bureau

Remarks made by our politicians contain vivid examples of quick wit, horse sense, learning and object self-revelation. Here are some recent examples which have mostly escaped general notice in our newspapers.

WINNING VOTES

"There are times when I am almost afraid to kiss a baby lest someone look quizzically at me with the unspoken reaction: 'I didn't know there was another election on!'"—Prime Minister Lester Pearson

BEDTIME RANTS

"A civil service is thought to be perpetually in danger of strangulation by its own red tape. I have occasionally suffered from this danger. But I have also suffered from the results of impatient attempts to cut across tried and established procedures in the interest of a too narrow concept of efficiency. You can get your tooth paste more quickly by squeezing the top of the tube, but the result is not to be recommended."—Prime Minister Lester Pearson

TIME MARCHES ON

"Of course I have every sympathy with the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Diefenbaker) being myself at the same melancholy stage of existence, and I can well believe that now and again he hears the words of Andrew Marvell saying: 'But at my back I always hear Time's winged chariot hurrying near.' I would suggest there is something odd in his determination to thumb a ride on time's winged chariot to oblivion."—Mr. Colin Cameron, NDP MP from Nanaimo

LET'S BE JOYFUL

"The present political circumstances of Canada demand that we all look towards the future. This looking towards the future seems to be much more desirable than the foot-pushing test-guessing that Canadian members of parliament sometimes indulge in during debates in the House of Commons as they review the past or examine the present."—Mr. Eldon Woolfson, Conservative MP for Bow River, Alberta.

TOOTH PASTE AGAIN

"I was very pleased to see the Minister of National Health and Welfare (Miss Judy LaMarsh) come into the house today her very affable and amiable self. I am glad she discarded that 'bull in a china shop' attitude which she sometimes displays. I am particularly glad to see her with such a broad and handsome smile, displaying such a fine set of pearly teeth. I as a dentist commend her for that. I have also with such teeth into some of my suggestions."—Mr. Joseph Stogran, Conservative MP for Springfield.

LIBERALS' PET

"I do object very strongly to the misuse of public money for the subsidization of the establishment of industry in an area (Brantford, Ontario) that is on the perimeter of one of the richest, most prosperous and most progressive areas in Canada. That community was up one morning and found they had become the adopted and retarded child of the liberal government."—Mr. Gordon Chaplin, Conservative MP from Galt

LIKE THE FARM

"The hon. member who has just interrupted reminds me of a type of wheat we used to grow in Saskatchewan. It was long in the straw, but in the head, but when you threshed it there wasn't much in it."—Hon. Alvin Hamilton, former Minister of Agriculture

OUR WAY OF HOLIDAYS

"The holiday crowds today are an understatement and they are ready to crowd. Because of statutory holidays with pay, because of the fact that cars are owned by almost everyone, most Canadian families are today throwing the kids into the back of the car and saying 'Let us go to the National Parks'."—Hon. A. Laing, Minister of Northern Affairs

Chatty Computer May Be Reality

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The atomic age bestride about computers chattering with computers may become reality at the world's first fully automatic computer set newspaper, the South Bend Tribune.

IBM and The Tribune recently demonstrated the workings of the first newspaper plant to go completely to type set by computer for all news and classified matter.

Since Nov. 7, all four editions of The Tribune have been produced by an IBM model 1620 computer and related systems.

Unjustified lines of uneven length tape is punched by operators, fed into the computer automatically, justified and corrected, and automatically sent to the proper Monarch typesetter. Unlike other similar systems, no one touches the tape from performer to linecaster.

Franklin D. Schurz, editor and publisher of The Tribune, listed many advantages—some still not fully realized—from use of the computer systems. He and Warren C. Hume, president of IBM's data processing division, addressed a gathering of about 40 production managers and trade press representatives from all over the U.S.

Schurz, Hume, and Tribune and IBM executives outlined areas in which the computer was of help.

—A tremendous reduction in elimination of short and long lines of type, with less idle time on the machines.

—Substantial savings in both time and money in setting type.

—Better spaced, easier to read newspaper.

—More time in less time for better coverage of major news stories breaking late.

—Less damage to reproducers since killing wears them faster than top speed operations.

Schurz said he understood Oklahoma City, where IBM computers also are being used, had found its newspaper obtained more words in fewer lines.

Hume told the production managers that simply switching to computerized type setting doesn't ensure a good newspaper. "That," he said, "would be like saying a plumber certainly was using a fine plunger the other day, or that a great novelist must have a wonderful typewriter."

BIBLE BRIEF

Let . . . no man put . . . an occasion to fall in his brother's way.—Romans 14:13.

How will one answer the Great Judge if he has led a brother astray?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A statement in the court's written judgment explaining why a prison sentence was thought necessary.

These provisions are similar to those in force in Great Britain.

Crime in this age group is rising steadily in Canada. In 1957 there were 5,432 young adults who were convicted of indictable crime, and in 1961 there were 7,300. This is an increase of 35 per cent over a five year period—a growth roughly three times the population growth in the age group. To look at it another way, one adult criminal in five in this country is a young adult.

It would appear from this that our present methods of handling this age group are not meeting with too much success. At the same time we cannot afford to fall in stopping the development of these ineffectual criminal careers.

The question then is not one of leniency, but of finding a more effective way of meeting the problem. Our present system of sentencing so many of these young people to a short term in prison accomplishes nothing in the way of treatment and is extremely dangerous in that it often confirms the young offender in his self-identification as a criminal.

It is perfectly true that many young adult criminals are too dangerous to remain in the community, but in their case a longer period in prison with adequate treatment facilities is required. For the majority a program other than a term in prison must be found.

PROGRAM NEEDED

Each offender needs a program designed to meet his individual circumstances and only one example can be given here. This would involve a boy of normal intelligence who dropped out before completing high school, who has no roots in the community and who drifts from job to job, with no specific plan for the future. Changing this boy's way of life requires more than six months in reformatory.

If community hostels could be provided to which this boy could be sent either as a condition of probation, or on a straight commitment, he might be held under some control for a number of years while he completed high school and took a trade training course, in both instances in community schools.

His evenings could be controlled, and group and individual counselling could be made available to him to help him with his personal problems and give him motivation in his education. The major effect on the young person's life of such a program in contrast to a prison sentence is obvious.

The problem is not one of leniency but of being practical and recognizing the shortcomings of our present "get tough" policy. There is no suggestion that illegal activity should be condoned, and in many ways the long period of control which might be needed under another plan might be interpreted as less lenient than some aspects of the present program.

Changed plans would, of course, require improved facilities. There is no point in anything to the courts that they must find alternatives to prison unless those alternatives are provided.

Wear Seat Belts Properly

(Canadian Highway Safety Council)

"Seat belts will never prevent car accidents nor in such accidents will they prevent death or injury to the occupant in all instances," warns the Canadian Highway Safety Council. "They will, however, prevent death in more than one-third of fatal accidents, and serious injury in more than half of injury-producing accidents."

The fact that some people have encountered death in a car accident even while wearing a seat belt, in no way belies the effectiveness of the belts as a major life-saving and injury-reducing device in a car crash.

There will always be people attempting to discredit seat belts. Recently, seat belts were accused of causing internal abdominal injuries in crashes at speeds of more than 50 miles per hour.

There is ample evidence to the contrary, but then belts were worn properly. They had been fastened snugly over the hips and pelvis so the shock was transmitted through the heavy bone structure. Placing the belt over the upper abdomen will transmit the shock to the internal organs and increase the chances of injury.

There is also the case of car crashes at speeds of 70 mph and over in which belted occupants stand relatively little chance of surviving.

In such cases, it is better for the occupant to wear a seat belt and suffer injury than to wear none and face certain death. Having to choose the lesser of two evils is not uncommon these days.

Miss Bell reminded the members of the objectives of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. To promote the interests of business and professional women throughout Canada; to encourage a spirit of co-operation among the business and professional women in Canada; to assist educational opportunities to business and professional women through industrial, scientific and vocational activities; to become affiliated or federated with any other federation, association or organizations of a similar character in Canada or in any other country.

At the July 1962 convention, a delegation headed by our president, Elsie Gregory MacGill, met with the prime minister and discussed briefly on such subjects as requests for commissions on the Divorce and Abortion laws of Canada, changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Income Tax Act. New Device Asks To Be Bee-Strung WASHINGTON (AP)—A device that asks to be stung by whole colonies of honey bees for scientific research.

It takes five minutes for the device to milk a colony of bees—and it gets precious little venom for its effort.

But a group of Cornell University researchers reporting on the process said the device can be moved easily from hive to hive—and milking about 20 hives on the average yields about one-third of an ounce of venom.

That's roughly the venom produced by 10,000 worker bees under the best of conditions.

The device is simple in design. It shocks the bees electrically and often. This angers the bees who sting through a nylon material, ejecting their venom.

It's relatively safe for the bees too—since seldom more than a dozen in any hive lose their stingers in the process, the researchers reported in Science, the Journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Greatest Royal Baby Boom Since Days Of George III

LONDON (CP)—Britain is in for a royal baby year in 1964. Stork isk arounds with the Queen expecting her fourth child early in the new year.

Princess Alexandra her first around the same time and the young Duchess of Kent, Alexandra's sister-in-law, her second in the spring.

As a result there will be few public engagements for the Royal Family in the early part of 1964. So far the only big event scheduled is the Queen Mother's visit to Australia and New Zealand in February and March to open the Adelaide Festival of Arts.

The royal baby boom, three births within a few months, has set gossip writers delving into history. It seems there hasn't been such productivity since the days of George III.

The past year saw one of the most popular royal weddings in living memory when Princess Alexandra, tall, green-eyed Scots businesswoman, married Prince Philip in Westminster Abbey April 24.

Few royal occasions since the Coronation have aroused so much genuine affection among the ordinary folk of Britain due partly to the shy charm of the year-old Alexandra herself, partly to the refreshing personality of her commoner groom.

BEHIND THE SCENES AT THE OPERA

Canadian Opera Company Warmly Received In Kelowna

By FLORA EVANS Daily Courier Women's Editor

The Canadian Opera Company's presentation of Mozart's "Cost Fan Tutte" came to the Kelowna Community Theatre Saturday, sponsored by the Kelowna Rotarians, and in spite of the extremely cold weather, the Snow Ball Frolic and the many Grey Cup festivities going on around town there were very few vacant seats in the theatre.

This century opera in the 18th century manner seemed a particularly apt choice for the Canadian Opera Company presentation as there is no one outstanding role and all six singers have more or less equally prominent parts.

Jan Rubes, as the crafty Don Alfonso, stood out for the clarity of his diction and the richness of his voice, and the lightness of his voice was outstanding particularly in the second scene's final trio, which was a rather wished for the highlights of the production in the hands of the vocalists and the piano accompaniment.

The stylized acting and direction made for a spirited presentation which abounded in comic touches and visual appeal. Two lively footmen who walked on and off the stage to change the scenery and props added another charming, 18th century touch and the English translation by Ruth and Thomas Martin, lost nothing of the light hearted humor of the libretto.

The score of "Cost Fan Tutte" rates among Mozart's most delightful music and Dr. George Bragauer, the musical director and pianist for the production, was outstanding particularly in the second scene's final trio, which was a rather wished for the highlights of the production in the hands of the vocalists and the piano accompaniment.

Judging by the five curtain calls taken by the cast at the end of the performance the audience enjoyed the evening enormously, and we hope it will not be too long before the Rotary Club bring the company back to Kelowna again—perhaps with an entire cast of their top singers, and at least a three-piece orchestra.

ANN LANDERS

Schools Should Set Higher Standards

Dear Ann, I'm a Kananis high school teacher who did not agree with your reply to the high school student who complained because the rich, well-dressed kids always walk off with the class offices.

I've observed high school elections for several years and he is right. Elections are nothing but popularity contests. Sometimes the popular one also happens to have leadership qualities, but at this is the case, it's only a coincidence.

This year the sophomore class president is a handsome athlete who is so stupid he can't learn the simplest rules of parliamentary procedure. I'm the class advisor and it's a serious problem.

The junior class president is worse. He has big blue eyes, wavy hair, is built like Atlas and doesn't have a brain in his head. The boy is so inept, he was unable to make a decent 30 minute welcoming speech at the junior-senior prom. Perhaps in some schools the bright kids are rewarded with the offices, but it doesn't happen here—CLOSE UP OBSERVER

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 22 and engaged to marry a fellow 21. Ed and I plan to be married in the spring and the problem is my mother. She wants to run everything. She said when she got married they had a small reception in the back yard and served beer and sandwiches and everybody had a swell time. That was 29 years ago, Ann. My mother doesn't realize times have changed.

I've offered to pay for part of the wedding because I know money is the reason mom insists on a simple affair. She won't hear of it. She says Ed and I need our money for furniture and other household items. We would rather have no reception than invite friends to have beer and sandwiches in the back yard. Please advise.

Dear C. W. S.: Tell your mother you want a simple ceremony and no reception—and stick to it. There's no point in a celebration that would only make you and your fiancé unhappy.

My husband is a nice man in every other way but he has an iron grip on the purse-strings. We have one child and we owe no bills. He makes $10,000 a year. Do you think I am entitled to a clothes allowance? If so, how much should I ask for?

Please hurry your answer, Ann. There is a big party coming up next week.—CINDERELLA'S DOUBLE

Dear Cindy: What did you talk about before you got married? And what have you been talking about for the last seven years?

Every woman whose husband is employed is entitled to an allowance for clothes. In your case I would say about $500 a year is not too much.

Vernon Electors Hear Reports

VERNON (Staff) — Some 150 people attended Monday night's annual stewardship meeting to hear a summation of past year council and school board activities presented by their respective leaders.

His Worship Mayor E. Bruce Cousins reported on behalf of the members of the city council, and chairman, Mrs. Vera McCulloch, on behalf of the board of school trustees. Chairman of the meeting was S. R. Murhead, president of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce.

Although the anticipated attendance was realized, Mayor Cousins said he was dissatisfied in the small representation of electors.

A preliminary statement of revenue and expenditures was distributed to those attending and slides depicting the "before" and "after" aspects of the city's paving program were shown.

Mayor Cousins commended the current city hall staff for their "invaluable" assistance rendered during the last two years, especially four members of the staff who have apparently taken every course available by the provincial government on municipal affairs. "People coming into city hall have well realized the change of attitude in our staff, and this has been greatly attributed to their high proficiency," he said.

MILL RATE
In examining the mill rate comparisons of the past, Mayor Cousins said it had been reduced from 37.18 mills to the current rate of 27.125 mills. A total of 65 per cent of all revenue received was from taxation.

Of the 1963 prepared budget 26.89 per cent was allotted to education, 14.42 to public works, 10.10 per cent to sanitation, 5.74 per cent to fire protection and 4.4 per cent to police enforcement.

In public works projects Mayor Cousins said it was his belief the civic minded citizens of this town would continue to petition the city for further sidewalk construction in future years.

IMPROVEMENTS
Of local improvements completed in the area 2.3 miles of road construction, 2.5 miles of permanent paving was completed, 4.3 miles of asphalt curbing had been installed, and 2.8 miles of sidewalk has been laid, all in addition to regular public works maintenance.

School board chairman Mrs. McCulloch told the meeting there are now 4,511 pupils and 179 teachers in the school district No. 22, compared to 4,402 pupils and 174 teachers in 1962. There are now 14 schools, elementary and secondary, in the district.

Building improvements during the last two years included the addition to West Vernon elementary school and the activity room at Bearsto elementary, both completed and in use.

NEW SITE
The property on Mission Hill has been sold and a new site for an elementary school at Kalamalka Lake has been purchased from C. W. Husbend.

Regarding educational development, a district school librarian has been made necessary since the regional library withdrew its service to schools. Librarian duties include organization of libraries in small schools and distribution of books.

GRAN FRENCH
An experimental class in oral French is being conducted in Grade VI for the first time, and as an added contribution the teacher is French-Canadian, said Mrs. McCulloch. "This is perhaps a small contribution to the fight against bilingualism," she said. Compulsory courses for non-academic students are now given at the secondary level for two years, and a beginning has been made in having the students actually work part time in city businesses, while continuing their studies, she said.

ADULTS
"There is also a great upsurge in adult education, and a seminar at Penikese in the spring convinced us of our responsibility in this field in school district No. 22 and consequently, we appointed a full-time director for 1963-64."

According to statistics released by Nick Turk, the director, there are some 880 adults attending classes in Vernon and Lumby. At the same time in 1962 there were 43 classes with 422 students, and there was a total of 730 students for the year ending June 1963. Of the courses offered this year, two are credit courses—math 30 and history 91, both leading to matriculation.

REFERENDUM
Mrs. McCulloch said the Vernon school board in co-operation with Armstrong, has petitioned the government for permission to present a referendum asking the ratepayers if they are willing to support a two-year regional college in the North Okanagan. "A beginning has been made here in organizing a committee to assess the educational needs," said Mrs. McCulloch.

Following the reports of the two civic leaders, Mr. Murhead officially introduced the three mayoral candidates, Lionel Mercer, Harold Down and Ellwood Rice, each of whom was permitted to speak briefly of their intended commitments to the citizens of this area if they are elected.

Each of the six aldermanic candidates were introduced and permitted to speak briefly also. They included Ald. Eric Palmer, seeking re-election, Ronald Armitage, Robert Dalziel, Lawrence Ferguson, William Monk and John Nakoneschny.

PRELIMINARY SET FOR HAASE

VERNON (Staff)—A preliminary hearing of a capital murder charge against Lawrence Herman Haase of Kelowna, will be heard at the court house here this week.

The hearing is scheduled for Thursday and Friday and will extend into Saturday if necessary, said crown prosecutor Peter D. Seaton. He said 30 people are expected to testify before the hearing conducted by district magistrate D. M. McDonald of Kamloops.

Haase is charged with the murder of 15-year-old Diana Ring, whose body, along with that of her twin sister Donna, were found in dense brushland about a half mile from their resort home at Mabel Lake on October 8.

Haase has been held on a series of remands at Oakalla prison.

VERNON (Staff)—A film entitled "Rogers Pass" will be shown to members of the Vernon Old Age Pensioners' club on Friday afternoon in the Elks Hall at 2 p.m.

The Vernon OAP group now has a membership of 138 following the addition of nine new members during the last week.

Search Continues For Hunter Lost On Shorts Creek Area

VERNON (Staff) — A ground search party is continuing a search today for a 60-year-old hunter missing in the Shorts Creek area.

Jean H. Hiler, employed at the nearby Fintry Estate, left on a deer hunting trip early Sunday and has failed to return.

The Shorts Creek area is near Fintry on the West side of Okanagan Lake and about 30 miles southwest of Vernon.

Twelve members of the Vernon search and rescue squad, under the direction of searchmaster Ed Hornell, were called in shortly after midnight Sunday, along with four members of the Vernon RCMP detachment and an RCMP tracking dog and its master from Kamloops.

A private aircraft also searched the area around 1 a.m. and 2 a.m. Monday in an effort to spot any campfires possibly made by the missing hunter.

The forties—wonderful but vulnerable years

The forties are rich and satisfying years for most women. Children are less demanding by then, allowing Mother more time to relax and enjoy herself. And since income is often higher many women can turn to personal interests they couldn't afford before.

At the same time they can be vulnerable years. A woman widowed in her forties needs a substantial income to keep the home going. If she doesn't have this income she'll have to go out to work. Probably the kind of work she was doing before she married.

But twenty years have gone by. The methods she remembers, the equipment she's familiar with—all will be vintage 1940. She'll discover she's competing for jobs with younger well trained people. Life will be a tough row to hoe.

One sure way to prevent this tragic readjustment is to invest in Manufacturers Life's permanent insurance. It combines family income protection with the advantages of a sound personal investment. Call the Man from Manufacturers and ask him to help you check whether you have enough permanent insurance for your current needs.

Still Some Shock Remains In Hollywood's Hitchcock

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Paddy, from her boat with The Birds, provocative Alfred Hitchcock, was filming a new movie this week and it appeared there was still some shock left in the old master.

Once concerned with shock-and-slasher doings, Hitchcock has lately dealt with sex. His new film "Marnie" will offer some variation on the ancient theme. His heroine is a sophisticated beauty who is a compulsive thief and a liar.

This is at the role for which Grace Kelly was supposed to end her film career. Her second thoughts are perhaps understandable. Kelly is Tippi Hedren, apparently recovered from her bout with The Birds. The confused but forceful band is played by Sean Connery, who has scored a hit as James Bond in the Ian Fleming detective series.

Too many inhibitions. "Marnie" is symptomatic of the American female who is basically frigid. Hitchcock said "There is a vast amount of difference between a woman's sexual and actuality in the American woman. She is inhibited from childhood by magazines and advertisements to make herself seem alluring and sexy."

But alas, her inhibitions are too great. There is in this country a long tradition of puritanism. There is also a lack of sophistication.

"That is why there is so much divorce in America. When a wife suspects that her husband is having an affair, she immediately summons a lawyer. A European wife is more sophisticated. She says, 'Let him have his fling, he will come back to me.' And he generally does."

English promiscuity. Hitchcock views the matter of female allure on a geographical basis. Sexuality decreases as you travel southward in the European continent. That is why, naturally, when you have sophisticated women in literature, food and other matters, you would expect a nation to be sophisticated about sex as well. That is certainly true of the Scandinavians. As for English women, they are the most promiscuous of all.

Sexual enlightenment diminishes as you reach the Latin countries — and don't let the French preoccupation with "maison" etc., fool you. The French and the Italians have a shockingly attitude toward sex.

Ticket Scalpers Aim Of Probe

NEW YORK (AP)—The state attorney general's office will conduct hearings next week on reports on collusion between theatre people to scalp tickets to hit Broadway shows for as much as $15 apiece.

The Dec. 10-11 hearings, announced Sunday by Attorney General Louis F. Lefkowitz, also will investigate alleged bribes to theatre employees to supply tickets to producers from theatrical supply houses and practices "which may have victimized some investors."

Lefkowitz said some investors in Broadway productions "never received an adequate account of the situation."

OPEN 24 HOURS

LONDON (AP)—The Salvation Army has opened a new $200,000 international headquarters here featuring 24-hour a day service for persons in trouble.

The bidding:

Pass Pass Pass 1♥
1♦ 2♥ Pass 4♥

Opening lead: king of spades. The declarer can sometimes make his contract by establishing a position late in the play, when an opponent on lead must give him a trick which he would otherwise have had to lose.

However, in attempting to establish a winning endplay position, the declarer must do everything possible to leave the opponents no means of escape, and he should therefore plan his play with this in mind.

Here is a case where declarer fell short of his goal in attempting an endplay. He took the king of spades with the ace, drew two rounds of trumps, and then put West in the lead with a spade, thus forcing West to return a diamond or a club.

If West has returned a club, South would have made the contract, but he returned the king of diamonds instead. The regrettably favorable lead did not help much, because East played the nine and the declarer eventually scored two clubs and a diamond to defeat the contract one trick.

The attempted endplay was premature. What declarer should have done after drawing two rounds of trumps was lead a diamond from dummy and finesse the jack.

With the finesse succeeding, he could cash the ace of diamonds, and then exit with a spade. This play would have succeeded, because West would have been forced to return a club or else concede a ruff and discard in either case, South would have lost only three tricks and made the contract.

South should reason, in view of West's pass originally, that West could hardly have both the king of diamonds and the ace of clubs in addition to his spade suit; presumably he would have opened the bidding in such case.

Declarer can therefore assume, if the diamond finesse loses to the king, that East has the ace of clubs, and for this reason he should play the diamond before making an attempt to endplay West. He cannot afford to play spades ahead of diamonds because he does not yet have West tied up in a knot.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Excellent Moon and Leo influences should make this a highly stimulating day. This is a time in which to emphasize your originality and spirit of enterprise. Try to finish incomplete tasks in the forenoon and begin more ambitious projects in the afternoon. The late P.M. will be fine for social gatherings and romance; also for making new friendships.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you are now at a pivotal point where realization of your immediate goals is concerned. Especially if you are a professional in almost any field and or if your occupation requires a certain amount of executive ability. Stellar aspects promise a definite up-grading of your business and financial setup during the next 12 months, with peak periods forecast later this month, in January, May, August, October and November.

Romance, travel and social activities will be governed by generous influences during the current month, January, February, April and mid-1964. Make cordiality and cooperativeness your by-words in the months to come, since the good will of others, combined with excellent planetary blessings, will contribute materially to your success. The first six months of the new year should prove highly inspirational to creative workers.

A child born on this day will be highly imaginative and versatile but will always be rebellious of restraint of any kind.

Soviet Fleet "Building Up"

PARIS (AP)—A buildup of the Soviet Navy's heavy fleet in the Baltic Sea was reported Monday by a group of the Western European states.

Details of the Soviet fleet were given by a defence and armaments committee report to the opening session of the four-day meeting.

The report said Russia has more than a dozen nuclear submarines operating from the Baltic Sea. Five of six nuclear submarines are expected to be added each year of the next decade.

Soviet sea forces have 465 ships, including missile-powered craft. These are deployed: 195 in the Baltic, 15 in the Black Sea, 145 in the Arctic, 140 in the Pacific.

Russian surface ships comprise 115 frigates, 134 destroyers and 24 cruisers, second only to the United States in numbers.

Train Robbery Hearing Ends

AYLESBURY, England (AP)—A preliminary court today ordered 15 men and three women tried at the Aylesbury Assizes in mid-January in connection with the great mail train robbery of Aug. 8.

The court ended its 18-day session after hearing 180 witnesses and inspecting 481 exhibits. More than $7,000,000 in cash was taken in the robbery.

A fourth woman, Mrs. Mary Manson, 42, of Wundelton, was discharged after the prosecution said it was unable to build a case against her. She had been accused of receiving $355 ($2,500) of the stolen cash.

The 18 face charges arising out of the ambush of the Glasgow-London mail train which was stopped by about 30 masked men at Cheddington, England. A signal was tampered with and the men uncoupled the train between the second and third coaches.

Some of them climbed into the engine cab and forced the engineer to take them to a nearby railway bridge. There they unloaded the loot, mostly small denomination bills in mail bags, and loaded it on a truck waiting under the bridge. About 10 per cent of the money had been recovered. The general belief is that the masterminds behind the robbery remain at large.

Pope Grants All Bishops Powers In Some Cases

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul today put him on the side of the Roman Catholic bishops on the issue of the concept that the bishops have certain limited powers in authority over the church on a permanent basis.

The Roman Catholic pontiff, appearing in person before the granted by the Pope today as a Vatican ecumenical council, there normally obtained by promulgated a decree which gave bishops for five and 10-year periods, on application to the pope. The applications are usually approved and renewed as a matter of course.

Pope Paul's decree means the bishops will have the faculties on a permanent basis, eliminating even the formality of Vatican administrative control.

This decree included permission to bishops to: Allow a priest to say mass on a weekday; Allow a priest to say mass outside of a church in special circumstances; Permit a sick priest to say mass in his bedroom and, if necessary, sitting down; Grant the privilege to priests of having mass at any time of the day.

Shortage Of Fill May Curb Size Of Montreal Fairground

MONTREAL (AP)—A shortage of fill may force the city of Montreal to cut down the size of the 60-acre site it is building for the 1967 world's fair.

While confirming that the problem has arisen, the city administration said it is confident no drastic revision of plans will be necessary.

Mayor Jean Drapeau said "the shape of the islands may be modified but the remaining area will be substantially what we need."

The fair grounds are to consist of two islands in the St. Lawrence River—St. Helen's, expanded to 310 from 135 acres, and a new 310-acre island called Notre Dame.

With dredges sucking up fill from the riverbed, the expansion of St. Helen's Island has been in progress for more than a month. Between St. Helen's and the St. Lawrence Seaway, a dike is being built in preparation for the construction of Notre Dame Island.

ENCOUNTER BILT The dredges have begun to encounter silt, shale and solid rock and it now is doubted that enough gravel and stone can be found in the immediate area to make the islands as large as originally planned.

The original plans call for 17,000,000 cubic yards of fill. Some 2,000,000 have been dumped so far.

The Drapeau administration is expected to indicate in a few days whether it will trim the islands' contours or seek more fill elsewhere.

If the fill is brought from the mainland or Montreal Island, it will presumably have to be transported by truck. Plans were announced recently to widen and reinforce the two-lane ramp connecting St. Helen's Island with the busy Jacques-Cartier Bridge but it is not expected this work can be completed before March.

There is still no permanent road access into the Notre Dame site.

Under a federal-provincial-municipal agreement, both islands are supposed to be completed and ready for actual fair construction by next July 1. The city had hoped to finish St. Helen's by Dec. 15 and then concentrate on Notre Dame.

Present indications are that there is enough fill immediately available for the 35-acre upstream extension of St. Helen's, but not for the 120 acres downstream.

One city hall source said the upstream end is more important, if a choice has to be made, because it is intended to be the heart of the fair. It is also supposed to be the site of the St. Helen's subway station and St. Helen's end of bridges to the city and to Notre Dame Island.

On the downstream end a viaduct might be made of necessity by turning some of the unfilled area into a lake.

Robert Shaw, the fair's deputy commissioner, said 500 acres, the site suggested by the International Bureau of Expositions, would probably be

Wedding Gift Blamed For Killing Couple

The Twist Of Lemon Barred From Martini

GENOVA, Italy (AP)—Don't ask for a twist of lemon peel in your martini. It's illegal in Genoa. The city council recently figured that because of insecticide sprays used on citrus groves the peelings might be dangerous. The council passed a law saying you can't use lemon or orange peels in drinks in public bars.
